

We as Americans are always trying to improve our lives and the means in which we live those lives. XM is one of those things that already is and will continue to improve the lives of those people that choose to invest in it. For this reason we should not be limiting the ability of satellite radio to provide local or regional information to its listners. Instead of limiting XM maybe we should be challenging the other providers represented by the National Association of Broadcasters to improve their services. By limiting XM and its services we may be limiting our future progress. XM satellite radio is one of the greatest things I have ever invested in, I believe one day something new will surely be invented that is an improvement on its services. Please do not limit the growth of XM and America instead challenge existing services to better themselves and those that are willing to invest in them.
